It's a dice game with a little story. It's story is about one small group of swordsmen. They join together to defeat the antagonist and take revenge for the bad things that happened to his neighbor. And they defeat it. High Lord Dieson isn't in this game, but there is a new antagonist who has recently joined the High Lord's Blood Cult. The new antagonist was used to turn people away from blood magic. Now he wants revenge and he is going to fight for the old ways. He is planning to use the witches power to obtain the power to summon more demons and turn the world of Land of Rolling into a hell land. This forces the innocent heroes to work together with their opponents. Using their weapons, armor and artifacts they must defeat the enemies and the cult in order to defeat their High Lord's new antagonist. There will be blood shed, there will be bodies in need of autopsies... It is a blood bath. Game Features: Dice games are fun in a social atmosphere. They are usually played with two players, but the game can be played in teams. All the dice players are united by their goal and the common enemy. The game is challenging for all with different paths through the story. The key is in your roll, if you have a bad roll your fate is decided. It is no coincidence that High Lord Dieson, god of war rolls dice. He calls for the rolls and decides how many will be used. The Land of Rolling is controlled by a number of dice players, but there is only a few people who hold their destiny in their hands. The dice rolling game is based on the story. Each story has its own rules and result. Every game is unique and a new story, new antagonists, new heroes, new challenges and plans. All the games are played the same way, you start off with an average roll. The roll is a little luck determining your starting points. Your starting points are the attributes that determine how well you play your role. There are six basic attributes: Attack, Defense, Magic, Skill, Artifacts, and Equipment. Each attribute is further subdivided with a character sheet that lists all the functions and special things that you may do. Control the action. You can decide who does what. Even if you are only one person in the game, you still need to make decisions and control the action.

Fiona Louden Fiona Louden (born Fiona Anne Louden; 24 March 1975) is a Scots aristocrat. She is the only surviving child of the newly divorced James, ninth Earl of Cardross (who is her father) and Amie van Heemstra whom Louden has always insisted was her mother. She is known by the London court as The Lady of Cardross. Her mother was the daughter of the Dutch nobleman Lambert van Heemstra and Lady Mary Coutts-Dunraven (the daughter of George Coutts, 4th Marquess of Aberdeen and Princess Mary of Denmark). On 27 August 1995 Fiona Louden alleged that her mother had lied to her and to James at her wedding about being born in Holland. Fiona said that it turned out she was actually born in the Grampian hills of Scotland; and that her father had met her mother on a night out in Glasgow in November 1987 when she was working as an au pair, and the couple immediately took to one another. Following her separation from James, Amie van Heemstra left Scotland for the Netherlands with their child. She divorced her husband and returned to Scotland with the child and her sister Kimpa Patalang (also born Lambert van Heemstra). Fiona Louden's mother was forced by her husband into a secret second marriage to the earl. Fiona Louden refused to acknowledge this second marriage and has never seen her new stepfather again, though she met him briefly, and cordially, twice in her childhood. Her biological father ceased to be part of

Brain-stimulating techniques have been applied successfully to the treatment of several types of neurological and psychological disorders. Although not initially used to treat psychiatric illnesses, the potential of brain stimulation has now been recognized. New techniques are being developed for the treatment of various forms of epilepsy and movement disorders. The use of thalamic stimulation as an adjunct to drug therapy for the management of patients suffering from chronic pain syndromes has been demonstrated to be safe and effective. Although promising, the application of high-dose repetitive transcranial magnetic stimulation to the treatment of major depression has yet to show convincing evidence of its efficacy, and its use in the treatment of eating disorders has not been established. Different dice than attack dice can be rolled. Each dice is unique. Some dice can be reduced, some can be increased by certain items. Reduce the damage by dropping an Armor or a Shield. Increase the damage by adding a Weapon to your side. Increase the damage by adding an Armor or a Shield to your side. Set your own story and characters. Graphic Stereotype of Characters We are proud to present the first part of our graphic story and art style. It is not very polished. We will improve it during the game development. One more thing: The Enemies are only like stupid and evil things we made up for the game. We do not know if there are other mobs in this land. We will offer free DLC. It will contain random characters in random locations to increase the feeling of randomness in combat. Building Cities has its own goal. You are controlling these places. They have their own buildings, classes and quests. Build as many towns as possible to get as much gold as possible. Build a lot of castles to increase your chance of survival against other attackers. Increase the level of your main character to increase his Strength. Upgrade your main character to have stronger attacks. There will be 6 PvP locations: Arena, Skirmish, Siege, Rampart, City and Fortress. The fortress is a big castle that you can not get attacked but only attacked. People will fight to survive. They do not have to defeat the opposing side. The rampart will go on in the middle of the game. Build a lot of armies to increase your chance to attack the opponents. The amount of troops you build will decide how many troops the opponents have. Build a lot of naval battleships to increase your chance to have a navy. Build a lot of vehicles to increase your chance to explore the land. New Game Experience This is the first time that we will offer a story experience with our PC game. We do not want to bother with cinematics in the beginning of the game. We want to focus on the gameplay in this first part. But we are aware that people want to have a story and background. We are currently working on an immersive first person shooter that is similar to Manhunt. It will be released in a later version of our game. For our first part we chose RPG Maker because of our love to a good story and movie
