Features Key:

Pursue your goal to find those hostile races and destroy them. Aim to attain 25 AUs (Areas Under Control) of the Galactic Federation and destroy a race's defense grid before that race can attack you. Only if you destroy ALL the races' defense grid can you survive. You're limited to 10 AUs maximum from anyone of the playable races.

Rule the space lawless inter-system regions through the Commander's Galactic Federation ship, the Space Interceptor.

Compete for the treasure of the galaxy - fashion your ship and spaceship as you wish. Let your imagination run wild.

Assemble, trade, equip, and upgrade your battle vehicle and/or spaceship to either compensate any weaknesses or enhance its strengths.

Team up with others to battle through 100 different levels, each of which has three difficulty sets of battles with different challenge levels - easy, medium and hard.

An RPG-style attribute and experience system allows you to strengthen your combat ability and equipment.

Easily add your own custom-made ships, weapons, equipment, and abilities to suit your strategy.

Earn command credits to upgrade anything you can build or equip. Upgrade your ship, weapons, and high-tech equipment to enhance your battle efficiency.

What's new:

PROVINCE, Mexico - The Salinan - who call the salt lake the great sea - have long lived in one of the world's most extreme places. With winds unmeasurably strong, the sun insupportable, the heat eternally scorching, and water dropping from overhead in a thousand forms, this is of course nowhere near the worst possible environment for a civilization. There is a bleak and beautiful land, overrun with black lava plates and unrelenting, sliding obsidian and cobalt, the ancient, glass-like spires reaching into the heavens. Red and yellow lakes at every corner and ancient canals stretching into the distance all sit quite elegant beside the unfathomable, boiling ocean. The single species under star-crossed skies that thrive in such a place is the Sali - mysterious, aboriginal and most lizard-like of the civilized creatures of the Great Sea - as they like to be known, sometimes as mentally attuned snakes. Their ocean bed ecosystem is likewise vile, a stinking thick muck of black oil, mucus, marine garbage, decaying plant life, and treacherous frog spawn. After all these millennia in the middle of nowhere, the Sali have learned to get used to the conditions, but of course, they cannot help but be better adapted to the endless seas of their birth. Over time, they built huge satellite cities, called ribbons, and live in more self sufficient, peaceful states, several of them, as well as miles of runways and works that spanned miles of land on the oceans. But the most infamous of all runways we see in the horizon of clouds for miles - it looks like ocean, but it's not - tapers until it's splitting and crashing in a fire of turbulent air, ripping through the land in stormy arcs of torrential precipitation. It's no wonder the Sali hate that, but the entire region glows red with fireflies, and the with the most vicious gust that can weaken their edges, a new runway can directly threaten their beautiful, oceanic vista. Now, the year is 2048, and the runways are gone, its steel and slag left to crumble and die on the windy sand. Grassy fields of luminescent, toothy Sali empresses stroll gracefully among the marshland, full with water, overtaken by dark sed

Paraiso Island has been under a terrible curse for centuries. It sends strong winds at night, hurricane-force winds in the day. The island's constant crack of thunder is a thunder of doom. Worst of all, it turns earth into stone, rusts metal and oxidises glass. Yet people keep coming to the island. The curse doesn't seem to have affected them. Perhaps it has some sort of thing to do with the scent of "bacchanal". That's a purifying scent that burns off the curses. Paraiso Island is being set up as a resort by Aria. The building is to be built on the island in the middle of the sea. No building can stand there. Thus, the island becomes a good place for people to come to relax. Aria will take care of things for you. You may not know a lot about being a restaurateur. You will be left alone, as Aria gives you a business manual (e.g. manuals about pouring coffee, mixing cocktails, or making pasta) and then lets you do your own thing. Every time you prepare and serve a meal, guests will comment on the meal you served. You must work harder than you do to stay on top of your game if you want to have the most successful restaurant! The Wi-Fi function features are as follows: - Cloud Save functions (PC version only). Infinity inversely decreases the current in a transmission line by diverting a portion of the current away from the desired path. This causes less cross-talk with secondary transmissions and significantly improves system communications. The amount of signal being diverted away from the desired path is directly proportional to the current flow, and the rate of change of current. Prior patent art has attempted to affect these using transformer coupling between one or more current carrying wires and other wires carrying current. To date, this has required the use of conventional or custom electronic designs. In addition, the transformer coupling of the current has required the transformer to be placed relatively close to the transmission line if not on the transmission line. There is a need, therefore, for a commercially viable transformer that can easily be incorporated into a standard transmission line without the use of individual wires in the transmission line to affect the transformation and in turn the further signal transformation to the desired path. In addition, there is a need for a transformer that can effectively couple multiple current carrying wires to another current carrying wire. It is therefore an object of the present invention to
