Given the technology used and the amount of information, this mode is something that no FIFA fans are truly prepared for. HyperBall How it Works FIFA 22 is the first in a new generation of FIFA football simulations, featuring a brand new "HyperBall" technology. This mode will have you play as a team of real-life players tackling and performing football challenges in the most realistic way possible. Collecting as many aerial duels, tackles, headers and shots as possible will unlock the ultimate challenges in action-packed matches. To really get the most out of this mode, you will need to become a player with "God-like" abilities to get ahead of the pack. HyperBall has been worked on intensively for close to two years now. It was born from the collective feedback of fans of all ages and nationalities that FIFA 20 introduced a cool, realistic simulation of football based on motion capture technology which was a big step forward, and we wanted to take it even further in order to allow FIFA 22 players to experience football in the most authentic way possible. The new mode, which is fully playable offline, uses the motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. Given the technology used and the amount of information, this mode is something that no FIFA fans are truly prepared for. We've grown with FIFA fans, who became fans of football along with FIFA simulations and we've paid a lot of attention to any suggestions they've made so that we can create the best mode yet. What motion capture data is collected from? Every player in the World Cup has an individual 'habit' - good or bad - based on his technique, pace, and agility. It's the same for every player and every team in the World Cup. So, in the context of FIFA 22, each of the 22 players will have a custom "habit" as you'd get with FIFA 11. This includes player attributes like speed, acceleration, accuracy, and skill. The key difference with FIFA 22 is the amount of data you get from each player which can be very hard to understand. We've collected thousands of data points from each player in order to create a unique player and to allow players
