Property Owners in Canada's Housing Crisis If you are a property owner in Canada, your property value could be at risk. While property owners in Vancouver are witnessing house price increases over recent years, home prices are now declining. In fact, home prices in Vancouver and other Canadian cities have even fallen over the past two months alone. As home values have decreased so too has equity, and as a result property owners may be at risk of being taken through the Canadian Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act. This law will allow a trustee to seize any equity in your home and sell it to satisfy any creditors. What Does This Mean to You? Trustees exist in Canada to help creditors collect their debts - not to collect any extra money for the court to give to a person with a mortgage or other debt. We have a solution for you. Our partner, Alternative Payment Solutions, Inc., is helping homeowners throughout Canada to stop this threat to their properties. It has been more than a decade since Alternative Payment Solutions was started with our core principles: to help property owners protect their personal property. Over this time we have made a name for ourselves providing direct service and creative solutions to individuals and companies throughout Canada. Our solution consists of an arrangement that allows the property owner to avoid losing their home to the court. In its simplest form, a solution like this would mean that the trustee would seek a court order for a property owner to sign over ownership of their home to the trustee so that they may be able to sell the property for a fair price or auction. The money raised would then be used by the trustee in satisfaction of the debts owed by the property owner in addition to any interest owed on the mortgage. If you are facing bankruptcy or can't pay your mortgage on your home, you'll need the knowledge and experience of a full-service bankruptcy lawyer who can guide you through the process with a clear goal in mind: to minimize the amount of money
