Lutheran Church in America (LCA) - Wikipedia About LCA The Lutheran Church in America (LCA) is a federation of over 70 Lutheran denominations, associations, and schools of theology in the United States, Canada, and around the world. It is the largest Lutheran denomination in the world, with over 3.9 million members. Its name, "Lutheran Church in America," reflects the two seminal events in the history of the Lutheran movement: Martin Luther's Augsburg Confession, and John Fridenkis's Formula of Concord. LCA was formed in 1957 when the Lutheran Church in America was formed from the merger of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod with the Evangelical Lutheran Synod. It is a federation of Lutheran bodies, with a central episcopal council and administration. Each local body consists of congregations. The Constitution of the Lutheran Church in America was adopted by the General Assembly of the Lutheran Church in America on November 18, 1957. The primary theological difference between the Lutheran Church in America and other Lutherans is that it is strongly evangelical in the Reformed tradition of the Lutheran tradition. It is affiliated with the Augsburg Confession, the Formula of Concord, and the Three Forms of Unity. Mission Statement The Lutheran Church in America's mission is to advance Christ's Gospel by proclaiming the Christian Gospel in word and deed, by nurturing Christian faithful in community with other believers, and by nurturing all people with the love of God in Christ. History The Lutheran Church in America was formed in 1957 by the merger of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA), which traces its roots to the Evangelical Lutheran Synod, and the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod (LCMS), which traces its roots to the Augustana Synod. LCA is a federation of Lutheran denominations and associations, reflecting the various Lutheran traditions throughout the United States and Canada. Sixty-four of the 70 members of the LCA are autonomous bodies in the Lutheran tradition. The four remaining members are the American Evangelical Lutheran Church in Canada (AELC), the Lutheran Church of the Saviour (LCMS), the North American Lutheran Church (NALC) and the Province of Ontario, an autonomous jurisdiction within the Anglican Church of Canada (ACoC). LCA bodies enjoy full legal status in their respective states and provinces. Members f988f36e3a
